Credit risk

The Company manages credit risk by holding its cash and cash equivalents with high quality financial institutions in Canada, where management believes the risk of loss to be low. The Company also has approximately $8.5 million of Mexican VAT receivable as at September 30, 2026 (March 31, 2026 - $4.1 million). While the Company is still pursuing collection, with the delay in processing and collection, management determined that it was appropriate to continue to recognize the VAT receivable, other than known collections, to resource properties as a cost of exploration. The timing and amount of the VAT ultimately collectible could be materially different from the amount recorded in the interim unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements.

Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that the Company will encounter difficulty in meeting the obligations associated with its financial liabilities that are settled by delivering cash or another financial asset. The Company's approach to managing liquidity is to ensure, as far as possible, that it will always have sufficient liquidity to meet its liabilities when due, under both normal and stressed conditions.

Management concluded that the Company has sufficient cash on hand to meet its obligations as they become due for the next twelve months, considering the Company's planned exploration, development and construction activities on its resource properties. The Company has the ability to scale its exploration, development and construction activities, and will do so as necessary, based on cash availability. The Company may need to raise further financing to fund future additional exploration, development and construction activities.

Market risk

Market risk is the risk of loss that may arise from changes in market factors such as interest rates, foreign exchange rates and commodity and equity prices.

a) Interest rate risk

The Company has no interest-bearing debt and aside from the interest earned on its cash balances is not exposed to any significant interest rate risk.

b) Foreign currency risk

The Company operates in Mexico, giving rise to foreign currency risk. To limit the Company's exposure to this risk, cash is primarily held with high quality financial institutions in Canada.

As at September 30, 2026, the Company held the following financial instruments in foreign currencies:

	US$	Pesos
Cash	278,810	516,204
Accounts payable and accrued liabilities	3,722,648	19,453,006

c) Price risk

The Company is not exposed to any direct price risk other than that associated with commodities and how fluctuations impact companies in the mineral exploration and mining industries as the Company has no significant revenues.
